

John F. Kennedy campaigning in 1960 in front of the State Capitol in Charleston, West Virginia.
(Abbie Rowe/JFK Library, Boston)

JFK and Jackie campaigning in Charleston. (courtesy Charleston Gazette and Daily Mail)

JFK campaigning in Charleston. (courtesy Charleston Gazette and Daily Mail)

Campaigning in West Virginia on behalf of JFK, left to right: Governor Wally Barron, U.S. Senator Jennings Randolph, U.S. Senator Claiborne Pell (D-RI), the namesake for the Pell Grant, State Democratic Chairman Hulett C. Smith, U.S. Senator Robert C. Byrd, and future West Virginia Supreme Court Justice Jim Sprouse. (courtesy Charleston Gazette and Daily Mail)

Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr. campaigning with JFK in West Virginia in 1960. In the center is State Senator Ward Wylie, Kennedy's West Virginia Campaign Chairman. (courtesy Charleston Gazette and Daily Mail)

Robert Kennedy campaigning for his brother in southern West Virginia in 1960.
(courtesy Charleston Gazette and Daily Mail)

JFK campaigning in Logan County, West Virginia. Far left, U.S. Senator Jennings Randolph, center, State Democratic Chairman, later Governor, Hulett C. Smith. (courtesy Charleston Gazette and Daily Mail)

JFK campaigning in West Virginia. Far left, Charlie Peters, former West Virginia Delegate and current editor of The Washington Monthly. (courtesy Charleston Gazette and Daily Mail)

JFK speaks to supporters at the Kanawha Hotel following his resounding victory in the May 10, 1960, West Virginia Primary. Kennedy told the crowd, "I am in debt to the people of West Virginia. I believe now that you have made it possible for me to be nominated for President." (courtesy Charleston Gazette and Daily Mail)

Kennedy family portrait, November 9, 1960—Standing from left, are, Robert Kennedy's wife Ethel, Steve Smith and wife Jean Kennedy, then President-elect Kennedy, Robert F. Kennedy, daughter Patricia Lawford, Sargent Shriver, Ted Kennedy's wife Joan, and Peter Lawford. In foreground, from left, are daughter Eunice Shriver, Joseph P. Kennedy with wife Rose seated in front of him, John Kennedy's wife Jackie, and Ted Kennedy. (courtesy Charleston Gazette and Daily Mail/AP Wire)